

The New York Young Republican Club

Record

Letter from the Outreach Chairwoman:

Hello and welcome! My name is Lauryn Lamp, and I recently moved to New York City from my hometown, Bellevue, Washington. Upon moving, I was eager to find a community to make this big city feel like home. After attending my first New York Young Republican Club event – Magaween – I had found exactly what I was searching for!

To me, outreach is quintessential to the success of the Republican agenda. Through outreach initiatives, individuals can feel invited, included, and supported in their efforts to participate in American politics. As such, I am overwhelmingly grateful to serve as the Club's Outreach Chairwoman. Through this role I strive to: 1) reach out to groups in the community to strengthen our alliances and coordinate goals, 2) embolden groups and individuals, and 3) encompass new communities.

Over the past few months, the Outreach Committee has been hard at work launching initiatives to create new relationships and develop existing ones to expand the reach of the Republican Party as well as conservative values.

One of our key focuses is the College Outreach Initiative. Through this initiative we hope to connect with college republican groups to support their clubs and empower them in their endeavors. We must encourage young republicans as they pursue their education at institutions increasingly not accepting, or even hostile towards conservative viewpoints. We all know how hard it can be to persevere and remain steadfast in conservative values when facing social pressures and isolation in a college setting. With that goal in mind, we are looking forward to launching our mentorship program this spring to connect current members with local college students seeking mentorship. We are extremely excited about this program, and the benefits and support it will provide. We believe that this program will encourage students to be bold in their Republican views and steadfast in their values.

We are also looking forward to hosting a series of events with other local Young Republican clubs. Cross-club collaboration is a fantastic way to stay in touch with our friends in different regions. Through these partnerships, we can collaborate to bolster support for local elections, grassroots initiatives that are significant in the community, and display cohesion among the Young Republican groups.

Last month, the Outreach Committee launched the New Jersey Outreach Sub-Committee. As the club continues to expand its membership, outreach efforts will too. This sub-committee will lead all outreach operations in New Jersey, enabling the Club to increase its presence, support, and influence in New Jersey politics.

A huge thank you to the Executive Committee which has provided me with the opportunity to be a part of this amazing community. Shout out to Nando, who had cultivated extensive outreach before my arrival and continues to provide mentorship to me in this new role. I am incredibly thankful and honored to serve as the New York Young Republican Club's Outreach Chairwoman and look forward to furthering the Republican agenda and turning New York bright red!

Letter from the Asian Caucus

By: Nicholas J. Tan, Chairman & Joyce Wu, Vice-Chairwoman

The New York Young Republican Club's Asian Caucus was formed to represent the growing Asian population in America and to promote growth and representation within the Republican Party. While most Asians culturally hold conservative values that are in line with the Republican Party, the majority of Asians have been staying out of politics and are an enormous untapped voter base. Asians are the fastest growing minority population in America; by 2030, they will surpass the Hispanic American community.

The NYYRC Asian Caucus hopes to promote conservative values, preserve freedom under the Constitution, and extend its outreach to Asian communities by focusing on the issues at hand. Over the last year, the Asian Caucus has gone to rallies, protests, met with key community leaders, candidates, and elected public officials from the GOP to influence positive change and get more Asians registered to vote.

The Asian Caucus worked tirelessly, rallying in predominantly Asian communities like Flushing, Queens, with candidates such as Curtis Sliwa and James Pai. We flipped Flushing's Chinatown from Democrat to Republican, and Asians overwhelmingly voted for City Councilwoman Vickie Paladino, securing her win in District 19 in Queens. The tides have quickly turned since the New York City local elections back in November 2021, and the importance of the Asian vote has become evident as more Asians voted Republican for Mayor and City Councilmen than ever before in electoral history. We are proud to say that we have turned our actions into results!

Ongoing crime and violence towards Asians, defunding the police, bail reform, lowering taxes, eliminating the gifted and talented program in schools, critical race theory, lack of small business support, and building homeless shelters and drug injection sites in Asian communities were issues that were important to us and required immediate attention. The Asian Caucus rallied with NY Gubernatorial candidate, Congressman Lee Zeldin, in Brooklyn to protest homeless shelters being built in an Asian community next to a park where families with young children spend their time together.

Furthermore, crime and public safety became an issue with the ongoing attacks on Asian-Americans. With bail reform and the defunding of the police, crime has increased exponentially in New York City and with that there has been an increasing wave of violence against Asians. With the ongoing Covid 19 pandemic, violence towards Asians had already been a national issue. Once the peak of this violence was broadcasted all over national media outlets, more Asians in New York City realized that those in public office were not only not adequately representing them, but even worse, were staying silent on the root issues that caused Asian hate crimes to begin with. Policies made by the previous and current liberal administrations have failed us and continue to fail us.

Asians came out to vote not because of politics, but because of the real issues that they stand for. In particular, one of the most important issues to the Asian community is education. Education affects all socioeconomic classes, races, and ethnicities. In particular, education in the Asian community is used as a means to climb the socioeconomic ladder in order to be successful in America. Immigrant parents, while working hard for minimum wage, invest in their children's education by sending them to expensive after school and weekend "cram schools" to increase their verbal and math scores for specialized high school exams, when they themselves could barely speak English. When former mayor Bill de Blasio canceled the Gifted & Talented Program it angered Asian parents. Immigrant children score higher mostly in math scores and struggle with verbal, but studied hard to get their scores up so they could get into these programs, just for it to be taken away. Also, by limiting the amount of seats in specialized high schools for Asians and Caucasians, this suddenly became an issue of race - not celebrating aptitude and certainly not equality, but rather mediocrity. It also made getting into high-ranking schools like Harvard much more difficult, while a student coming from a specialized high school would have the skills to succeed in a competitive university.

It also became evident that Critical Race Theory was taught in schools to support further discrimination. Gavin Mario Wax, the President of the NYYRC, rallied with Phil Wong on the issue of education. Asian parents also bought houses in neighborhoods with good schools, choosing to pay high property taxes as an investment not only in their community but also in their children's education. Asian communities have been instead rewarded with drug injection sites and homeless shelters in their neighborhoods.

A large part of the success of any community involves small local businesses. Immigrant families open small businesses because you don't need any qualifications or a résumé to own your own business. Helping small businesses was a key issue that James Pai campaigned on, an Asian candidate for City Council who was endorsed by the NYYRC. Before the pandemic, many small businesses in Asian communities were already struggling. The pandemic became the final blow for these operations and caused them to close. Minimum wage made it difficult to hire workers to begin with; but once the mandates were put in place and stimulus checks were sent out, no one wanted to work for minimum wage and those small businesses that managed to stay open ended up suffering losses and closed as well, without any support from the government. Once again, it became evident to Asian communities that they needed to get involved in making their voices heard by voting, as they did, for Republicans.

On February 27, 2022, the New York Republican Asian American Caucus was formed under the umbrella of the New York State GOP and we maintain a close relationship with its leadership. The NYYRC Asian Caucus will continue to work closely with the New York Republican Asian American Caucus, as well as with current candidates and community leaders such as Wai-Wah Chin, Chloe Sun, Phil Wong, and Robert Jin, and other elected officials in Asian communities. Together we will serve as advisors for Asian policy and address the needs of Asian communities so that they may thrive and prosper based on their merit and ethic so that everyone, not just Asian Americans, can live the American Dream.

Let's not Forget about Little Italy

By: Michael Ragusa

It's no secret that the world, country, and especially New York City have all experienced major duress over the last few years. As a Brooklyn native, I'd like to provide some context and history for you, the reader, as to why Italian-Americans feel so strongly about what I'm about to discuss.

Recently, Italians have come under fire regarding Christopher Columbus and the fact that we celebrate Columbus Day (yes, that's right - Columbus Day, not Indigenous Peoples Day). The woke Left has attacked Christopher Columbus as a "white supremacist" for allegedly decimating the Native Americans. However, if you pick up a history book, you will read it was disease that killed the majority of natives during Columbus' explorations. People seem to quickly forget that long before Columbus there were many empires who slaughtered whoever dared to stand in their way.

Then on March 14th, 1891, 11 Italian-Americans and immigrants alike were publicly lynched in New Orleans. These 11 people were acquitted after being accused of killing a police chief, but regardless of their innocence, they were lynched by a public mob. The city of New Orleans didn't apologize for this mistake until 2019 - almost 130 years later.

As you read this, you're probably wondering "Why is he mentioning all of this?" Recently, an article was published in the New York Post regarding Chinatown receiving a $20 million dollar grant from New York State. The article made no mention of Little Italy; yet every year since 1926, Little Italy has generated tourism revenue and taxes for New York City and the State with its famous San Gennaro Feast & other events held in the iconic area - so why is the Italian community left out of this grant? How did we get here?

In 2020, COVID-19 took the world by storm and hurt the Chinese community tremendously as many people unfairly blamed any and all Asians. Terrible attacks and hate crimes occurred and still continue to occur, causing a media frenzy and the usage of the #StopAsianHate hashtag that has been shared millions of times on social media. Since the late 1800's, however, Chinese and Italian immigrants have shared neighboring streets in NYC. For the New York State government to not even consider the Italian community for a grant is a slap in the face.

As we all know, New York Democrats always make every issue about race and have claimed that people stayed away from Chinatown because of "anti-Asian bias" in light of the COVID-19 pandemic. The government has stated that people (many being potential tourists) have stayed away from Chinatown for this reason as well. But this is simply not true because for three-quarters of 2020, no one knew if they could leave their house or even open their businesses.

When the gyms were shut down for almost all of 2020, I rode the same bike route almost every day - starting in Bay Ridge, going through Downtown Brooklyn and then over the Brooklyn Bridge, and finally wrapping around to the Manhattan Bridge while passing through Little Italy and Chinatown. I did this every morning at least five days a week from the months of May to September. Unlike these politicians who speak from ivory towers, I was on the street with the working people like I have been around my whole life. I can promise you that as soon as the businesses were allowed to open in Chinatown and Little Italy, they opened, but the people stayed away from both areas equally - not because of "Asian hate", but because of the government's failure to provide clarity in the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic. Both areas suffered equally, as did all small businesses throughout the city, state and country.

How can we help? First, we should talk about helping Little Italy and all Italian-Americans across New York. A recent poll showed that 35% of small businesses permanently closed in the entire city due to our draconian COVID rules. Twenty million dollars wouldn't even put a dent in any community's need for COVID relief and it's actually quite insulting. But when we speak of Little Italy, it's not the only Italian mainstay of NYC - as a matter of fact, it's the smallest these days, but as previously mentioned it has brought the city tremendous revenue from tourism every year, pre-COVID. Did this so-called "politician" who decides where this money goes even ask the Italian-American communities if they needed any assistance? Does she even know that the most Italian neighborhood in NYC is Astoria? What about Bensonhurst? Or the south shore of Staten Island? These are all hard-working people living in middle class neighborhoods who deserve help. Some may be first generation, some may be taking over the family business, but all Italian-American communities should have a seat at the table if it involves their businesses.

Italian-Americans built this city with their bare hands. Look around you - buildings, churches, statues, we did it all. We aren't just about pizza and the Mafia, contrary to popular belief.

Now we must address the hard-working Asian-American community. The first step to help them would be to get rid of the bail reform law. 99% of the criminals who commit hate crimes on the Asian-American community have been arrested multiple times for violent offenses. The problem with politicians (left or right) is that they throw money at a problem or blame race instead of looking at and acknowledging the big picture. Another point to keep in mind: Chinatown isn't the only heavily populated Asian community in New York City. What about Flushing, Elmhurst, and Brooklyn's Chinatown? That's only naming a few of the heavily populated and wonderful Asian-American areas in this city. To say you are giving just ONE Asian community money seems rather narrow-minded. How do you think the people in the other Asian communities feel? Asian hate crimes are up citywide and Chinatown is NOT the epicenter. This money would be a much better resource for the NYPD and other various groups that would help this community, who contribute so much to this city. If you aren't a politician then take a step back and look at the big picture.

This is extremely unfair to all Asian-Americans in New York City, Italian-American business owners in Little Italy, and every other business owner who lost their livelihood during the pandemic. My message to these narrow-minded lawmakers is this: Stop playing the race card, it's getting old and stale like a piece of bread left out too long. Every single community needs help. COVID was not a racist virus. It showed no mercy to any race, creed, or sex. Unlike these money-hungry politicians, I feel your pain and will always support my neighborhood.

Endorsement: Andrea Catsimatidis For New York County Republican Committee Chair

The New York Young Republican Club proudly endorses fellow Young Republican, Andrea Catsimatidis for New York County Republican Committee Chair. Catsimatidis is an executive, investor, and manager in The Red Apple Group, a multi-billion dollar conglomerate that owns and operates assets in the energy, real estate, finance, insurance, and supermarket industries.

Politically, Catsimatidis has served as Chair of the New York County Republican Committee since September 2017 and she is also the New York City Regional Vice-Chair of the New York State Republican Committee. Catsimatidis is an outspoken critic of Covid mandate policies, saying, "Restaurant reservations were down 60% in NYC because of the left's tyrannical mandates COVID didn't kill their businesses; government mandates did. Mandates are finally lifted, and restaurant owners can start to rebuild their American Dreams again."

Catsimatidis has a natural ability to lead, as she began as President of the New York University College Republicans while studying at New York University's Stern School of Business.

She graduated from the prestigious university with a B.S. in Business Management, and double minors in both Communications and Political Science. Her professional experience within the political, real estate, investment, and insurance spaces give her a unique perspective and a competitive edge in leading the Republican Party in Manhattan.

Catsimatidis is an advocate for both the young and elderly citizens of New York City, and she actively contributes to the Alzheimer's Association and to the Police Athletic League. To promote and improve financial literacy rates among the youngest of the New York City community, she serves on the Board of DoughMain Education Foundation. Catsimatidis has demonstrated competency and direction within the private and public sectors and will continue to guide the Manhattan Republican Party towards future success. The New York Young Republican Club strongly urges all New York County Republican Committee voters to support Andrea Catsimatidis for her re-election as Chair in this year's reorganization meeting.

Event Spotlight: New Jersey Invasion

The New York Young Republican Club invaded New Jersey on March 28th, more specifically, Hoboken. New Jersey is part of the NYC Metropolitan Area, which defines our operational borders. Whether you are a New York or New Jersey native, our worlds certainly overlap, including important aspects of politics such as transportation, housing, crime and most importantly who has the best bagels and pizza.

Bill Spadea, radio host on New Jersey's 101.5 FM and founder of the Common Sense Club, opened our event followed by Mike Crispi, congressional candidate for NJ-4. Mike is in a primary campaign against a legacy RINO of 42 years in his district and hopes to replace his stale, globalist, neocon agenda with an America First one.

If you are a New Jersey resident please consider joining the NYYRC, and if you live in congressional district NJ-4, vote for Mike Crispi!

Chartering a Libertarian Caucus

For decades, tyrants and bureaucrats have torn up our Constitution. While the political elites have forgotten why this country was founded, the ideas of Liberty and limited responsibility lived on. It is up to us, the Liberty-loving Americans, to carry the torch of our founders. To make this country great, we must return to the Constitution, limited government, community and family values.

The NYYRC Libertarian Caucus is open to any club members who support personal responsibility, the Constitution, and civil rights for all Americans. Join us today!

New York Young Republican Club Makes a Splash At NYGOP Convention

We are happy to announce that our Club's influence in New York State Republican politics continues to grow. This success is highlighted by the New York Republican State Committee's designation of candidates for the 2022 election cycle.

Congressman Lee Zeldin is the State Committee's designated candidate for Governor. Congressman Zeldin is a member of the Club and has been a strong supporter of President Donald J. Trump and the America First agenda. He has vowed to reverse recent Democrat policies, including mandatory mask usage advocated by Governors Cuomo and Hochul.

Former Club President Paul Rodríguez is the State Committee's designated candidate for State Comptroller. One key issue he is focusing on is how the current Democrat Comptroller, Tom DiNapoli, uses the New York State employee pension fund to push woke politics into private corporations. Mr. Rodríguez said, "The state pension fund should not be used to virtue signal and certainly should not be used to destroy industries like natural gas."

Club Member Michael Henry is the State Committee's designated candidate for Attorney General. The Club was Mr. Henry's earliest major endorsement, and we are proud that others recognize how his tough-on-crime and anti-corruption focus will restore New York to its old glory. Henry plans to combat the crime wave rocking New York City, go after Andrew Cuomo's death toll cover-up, and end Letitia James' political persecution of the Trump family & the NRA.

Former Club Secretary and Current Member Joe Pinion also got the nod as the State Committee's designated candidate for New York's U.S Senate seat. Mr. Pinion is the first Black man to run for the U.S. Senate here in New York, and wants to put an end to Senator Schumer's 40 years in D.C. It is far past the time we finally take out the Democrats' Senate Leader.

On another note, Club Member Vanessa Simon was elected to be the NYGOP Secretary. We look forward to her strengthening the Republican Party in New York in order for Republicans to win up and down the ballot this November.

(For reference—State Committee designation does not make a candidate the Republican Party nominee for the General Election in November. The Republican Primary will be in June and we encourage all of our members to vote to make their voice heard in our Party's process.)

Call To Action – Call Your NY State Senator & Assemblymember – Tell Them To VOTE NO On Part R Of Governor Hochul’s Proposed Budget

Governor Hochul’s radical pro-abortion budget is unprecedented in its expansiveness. Her budget proposal would force all for-profit businesses and non-religious non-profits to have abortion coverage in insurance policies that they offer their employees. What this means is that any religious for-profit business would have to offer abortion coverage in their insurance plans even if it goes against their religious beliefs, as would be the case for an Evangelical Christian bookstore.

Freedom of religion is enshrined in the First Amendment of the Constitution and is a cornerstone and defining element of American society. Governor Hochul tosses this fundamental right aside to give a bone to billionaire-bankrolled Planned Parenthood and other pro-abortion lobbying groups. Given the structure of insurance coverage post-Obamacare, not only would Part R force religious business owners to subsidize abortions of their employees even if it goes against their religious beliefs, but it would also force religious employees to subsidize other employees’ abortions as well. On top of the religious freedom concerns associated with this bill, it would also be a taxpayer dollar sinkhole.

Given recent unsettled Supreme Court litigation surrounding abortion and contraception coverage for religious businesses, this bill could lead to a waste of taxpayer funding. Pro-abortion AG Letitia James would have to defend the bill in federal court as numerous religious groups would certainly sue over the law. This federal litigation would cost New York taxpayers millions.

The Left moved the goalposts; rather than aiming to make abortion “safe, legal and rare,” they now require on-demand, taxpayer-funded, late-term abortions up to and until the moment of birth (and also post-birth, according to Democrat ex-Governor Northam of Virginia). The Democrat Party and Governor Hochul have turned their backs on religious New Yorkers to appease a globalist billionaire cabal that believes abortions are necessary to reduce population growth, slow global warming, and destroy the family as a social unit. The New York Young Republican Club is ardently pro-life and pro-religious freedom, and we stand wholeheartedly against Part R of the proposed budget.

Ketanji Brown Jackson – Radical Activist Who Attacks Pro-lifers & Defends Terrorists

Joe Biden recently nominated Ketanji Brown Jackson to replace Stephen Breyer on the Supreme Court. As she is currently interviewing with Senators, the New York Young Republican Club feels it prudent to take a deep dive into her record.

Jackson’s competency and suitability for the Supreme Court is something that must be of focus during her confirmation hearings. For starters, she has spent less than one year on the D.C. Circuit, where she has written on very few cases. This presents a significant lack of credible experience. Even though she does have experience on the District Court in D.C., it must be recognized that the experience shows a lack of competency. She had over a 10% reversal rate in her District Court decisions, where her reversal rate was one of the highest on the District Court where she sat. Biden nominating her with such a high reversal rate is similar to making a C+ student the valedictorian.

On top of incompetence, Jackson has shown herself to be a liberal activist. While on the D.C. District Court, she was part of the activist group of judges who actively resisted the Trump Administration. She blocked the Trump Administration’s fast-tracking of deportations of illegals, and she refused to refer to “illegal immigrants” as federal law states their legal status in the country to be: illegal. Jackson is a registered Democrat and she donated to Barack Obama's presidential campaign. During the 2008 presidential election, she worked as a poll monitor for Obama's campaign. On election day, when Black Panthers intimidated voters outside of a Philadelphia polling site with weapons, Obama poll monitors and campaign lawyers did nothing to curb this injustice. You can make an educated guess where she stands on election integrity.

Jackson's activism also included siding with government bureaucrats, in a case subsequently overturned on appeal, based on procedural grounds that the federal courts didn't have jurisdiction for this case. While it is striking that a Supreme Court nominee did not understand simple procedural rules, this example simply underscores her history of sheer and blatant incompetence.

Jackson also lacks the character and moral conscience that an Associate Justice on the Supreme Court must hold. While in private practice, Jackson worked on an amicus brief for NARAL, a powerful pro-abortion lobbying group. Simplified, an amicus brief is a paper giving insight into an issue written by someone who is not a party in the case. Amicus briefs are intended to push the court to rule a certain way. The case in question regarded a Massachusetts state law that aimed to allow for a "floating buffer zone" around cars and people going to abortion mills. Buffer zone laws are meant to discourage pro-lifers from their sidewalk advocacy, which helps women choose life, by arresting these pro-lifers for exercising their First Amendment rights to freedom of speech, assembly, and religion. Other than the degree of radicalism it takes to assist a group that believes in murdering the unborn, it is shocking how easy it is for Jackson to actively advocate to reduce First Amendment rights for speech she does not agree with. This is pernicious territory for any judge, especially one who aims to play a role in the exercise of judicial review. Even though Jackson believes in stymieing the rights of Americans, she has no issue helping defend the rights of terrorists. In one shocking case Jackson took on during private practice, she defended Guantanamo Bay detainees. New Yorkers should be appalled of any judicial nominee who is willing to defend terrorists as we know first hand the true cost of terrorism.

We call on members and supporters of the New York Young Republican Club to call their United States Senators to tell them to Vote NO on Ketanji Brown Jackson's confirmation because radical activists do not belong on the highest court of the land.

Who Is Emma Weyant & What Is The Big Lie?

Emma Weyant is the real winner of the 2022 NCAA Women's Finals 500-yard freestyle event. Emma's victory was ripped away by Will ("Lia") Thomas, a biological man who identifies as a woman. Will's identification as a woman exists only because of pressure from a left-wing media and corporate ecosystem and acceptance from an American populace unwilling to stand for truth. There are several quotes from 1984 which highlight the Big Lie in today's society.

"Not merely the validity of experience, but the very existence of external reality was tacitly denied by their philosophy."

This quote highlights what the Left is doing on several fronts: denying the reality of biological sex and the inherent anatomical differences between males and females, claiming that recognizing the crime-wave enveloping the country is racist, and justifying skyrocketing inflation as a byproduct of good government spending, among others. These responses to the issues of our day are done to bully Americans away from thinking critically of what is occurring and to shame us away from exercising our own thought process to acknowledge what is true and what is not; this is the Big Lie.

The bullying is done via ostracization and gaslighting – the Left wants you to feel alone while, at the same time, telling you that you're unwell. This is done to make you believe that YOU (and your thoughts) are the problem, to push you into believing the Big Lie.

“And if all others accepted the lie which the Party imposed—if all records told the same tale—then the lie passed into history and became truth. ‘Who controls the past’ ran the Party slogan, ‘controls the future: who controls the present controls the past.’”

This highlights how institutions are actively working to turn the Big Lie into truth. Wikipedia refers to Will's pronouns as “her” on his Wikipedia page, and the NCAA allowed Will to compete in the women's competition. The NCAA did this even though they knew full well that Will went through male puberty and therefore has more muscle mass and a higher oxygen capacity than his female competitors. The Big Lie isn't just the recognition of differences between male and female;

it is the ever-engulfing denial of objective truth. The Big Lie's biggest supporters come in the form of the Democrat Party and Corporate America, who tell you what you can and cannot believe. If you break with their party line, they will close your bank accounts and require that you atone for your thoughts.

“Every record has been destroyed or falsified, every book rewritten, every picture has been repainted, every statue and street building has been renamed, every date has been altered. And the process is continuing day by day and minute by minute. History has stopped. Nothing exists except an endless present in which the Party is always right.”

The record is being falsified today in front of our very own eyes. Emma's victory has been rewritten to placate the supporters of the Big Lie. Only you can make sure they do not take the truth away from us.

Call the NCAA today at (877)-262-1492 and tell them: Will Thomas' championship should be rescinded and given to Emma Weyant.
